

The Georgia Gerontology Society was founded in 1955 as a membership organization of people with a common interest in the field of aging.

GGG is the largest state organization of multidisciplinary professionals in aging.

GGG:

- enhances public awareness of the needs, rights, and continuing contributions of older persons;
- promotes efforts to meet the needs of older persons through innovative and state of the art approaches to service;
- provides student scholarships and promotes career development in gerontology;
- collaborates with other organizations in expanding services, programs, education and research in aging;
- serves as the focal point for Senior Advocacy relating to public and social policy within the state of Georgia.

GGG Board of Directors:

- directs the business of the organization;
- is elected by the membership;
- comprises the officers, past president, sections and chapter representatives (if applicable), and members at large;

Members of the Society may form regional chapters and/or special interest sections as needed.
